

THE SUBJECT-SPECIFIC ONLINE RESEARCH LIBRARY

Search Me! makes it easy to explore the latest content from around the globe, specific to the course you are teaching.

Powered by Gale, Search Me! is an online research library customised to your subject, that puts the information your students need at their fingertips.

Fast, convenient and updated daily, so you and your students are always on top of the latest content.

Did you know?

Gale holds more than 160 million full-text articles from leading books, journals, magazines, newspapers and primary sources, multimedia assets including videos, podcasts, tutorials and images - updated daily.

Gale partners include the British Library, Chatham House, National Geographic, National Archives UK, The Times, The Economist, News Corp, Fairfax and the Smithsonian Institution.

Search Me! simplifies the research process

- Easy to search - enter a key term, filter and analyse to get the best results
- Visualise results with the Topic Finder - zero in on connections between topics
- Easy article referencing - citations are generated in multiple formats to make it even easier for students to reference work

- International students benefit from the translation button - read in 34 languages
- Print, email, download, bookmark tools

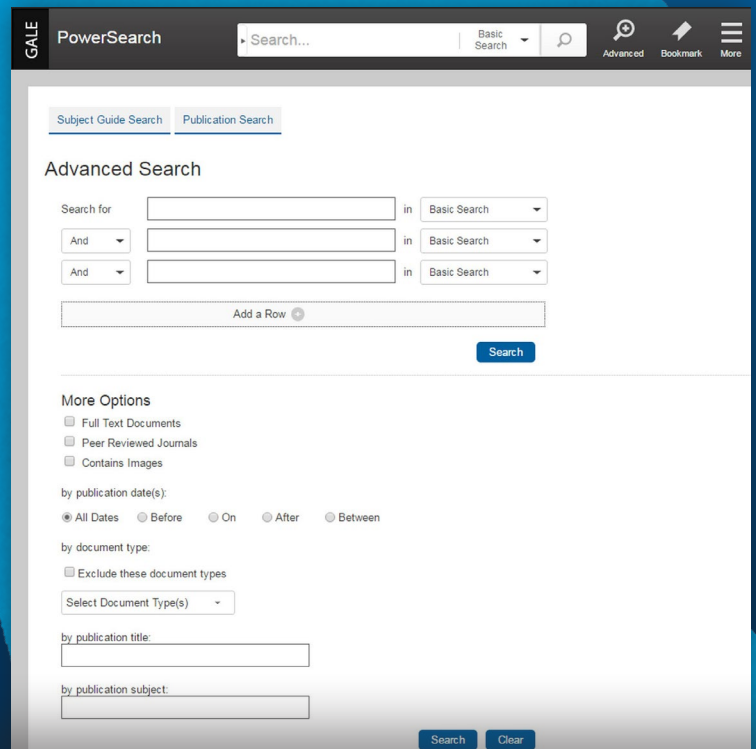

Search Me! can be deployed within your Learning Management System, or value-packed with Cengage print textbooks or eBooks.

The intuitive interface of Search Me! provides multiple pathways to quality content. Its browser-style format helps students to search across the entire database for the latest resources, review subjects, and select a particular resource.

Different search modes help students to quickly pinpoint what they need and get answers to their questions. They love the easy links between journals, news articles and reference content. They can bookmark, copy and paste URLs, making it easy to save, reuse and share search results.

Access to finely targeted resources, mapped to the specific subject you are teaching

- News drawn from sources including News Corp, The New York Times, The Economist – updated five times a day
- Search Me! browses millions of peer-reviewed, full-text articles from the world's leading journals, to choose the most relevant to present to students
- eBooks selected from more than 20,000 research and non-fiction publications
- Database articles, manuscript pages, primary source documents and more
