

Gale Research Complete

Product Updates

Platform Enhancements

New cross-product features and functionality, impacting Gale In Context, Gale OneFile, Gale Literature, Gale Primary Sources, and Gale Directory Library.

Gale Business: Insights

All content and functionality from Business Insights Global have been migrated to Gale Business: Insights. The current link to Business Insights Global will be replaced with a link to Gale Business: Insights in December 2022. The migration to the new platform provides a familiar look and feel, increased accessibility compliance, improved user navigation, and robust research and collaboration tools—and allows for easy integration into discovery services, courseware, and management systems.

Gale Business: Insights makes it easy to access desired information, while offering experienced researchers additional context and pathways for deeper understanding of complex business concepts. And while Gale Business: Insights will retain all existing Business Insights Global content and functionality, the new interface is built around company, industry, and country hubs and is designed to facilitate discovery of the rich reference, periodical, and financial content.

Gale Literature

Gale Literature Cross-Search

- New feature! On December 16, 2022, all customers with the Gale Literature cross-search will have access to over 400 topic pages. The topic pages provide students with a starting place for a diverse set of authors, works, and topics. They provide a concise overview, links to related topic pages, and access to related content across the owned or subscribed Literature resources belonging to the institution.

Gale Book and Authors

- Between July and December, we continued to add new titles and read-a-likes to Gale Books and Authors. Some highlights of coverage include:
  - Between September and December: added 152 titles selected by subject matter experts to support diversity, equity, and inclusion (DEI) initiatives (in addition to the usual content load).
  - Added new Australian and New Zealand titles recommended by our ANZ subject matter expert.

Dictionary of Literary Biography

- Volume 391 released in September, covering Young Adult Novelists, Second Series.

Something About the Author

- We publish 14 titles in this series annually; nine of those will be published by December 2022.

Gale Literature Criticism

- In September, we implemented a “Related Resources” feature. Researchers who start in Gale Literature Criticism and have access to Times Literary Supplement (TLS), will now see related results from TLS in the Explore panel on the document page.
- In October, we added a Series page to Gale Literature Criticism. The Series page provides a way to create a bookmark to a specific Literature Criticism series, helping students find content directly related to a course they’re studying. Researchers can search within the series from the Series page.
- New content includes:
  - 73 Literature Criticism series volumes that have published or will publish between July 1 and December 16, 2022.
  - There’s a heavy emphasis on diversity and inclusion, including such entries as:
    - Intersectionality in Global Anglophone Literature
    - Race in American Comics
    - Chick Lit and the Emergence of Postfeminism
    - Post-Bellum, Pre-Harlem Literature
    - The Hate U Give by Angie Thomas
    - My Left Foot by Christy Brown
    - Haroldo de Campos
    - Octavia Butler
    - Carlos Fuentes
    - Lu Xun
    - Akutagawa Ryūnosuke
    - Bapsi Sidhwa
    - Ivan Vladislavić
    - Jacqueline Woodson

LitFinder

- Numerous short stories, plays, and essays are being added to LitFinder each day through literary magazines. Also, there will be at least eight new works added between July and December 2022. These will focus on works newly in the public domain as well as DEI-related literature and history studies. Notable works include:
  - Soldier’s Pay by William Faulkner
  - Enough Rope by Dorothy Parker
  - The Negro Artist and the Racial Mountain by Langston Hughes
  - How Should One Read a Book? by Virginia Woolf
  - Winnie-the-Pooh by A. A. Milne
  - The Church and Prejudice by Frederick Douglass

Literature Diversity Blog Series

- We continue to publish quarterly to the Literature Diversity blog series to highlight and point students to the diverse content their library owns. The latest blog is titled “Discovering Diversity in 9/11 Short-Story Fiction.”

Gale Primary Sources

We're excited to announce that researchers will soon have the ability to view and link out to related articles in Gale eBooks when viewing a document in Archives Unbound. This "Related Resources" feature will use a custom algorithm to determine which articles to display from a library's eBook holdings by comparing the full text, subject, and title of the article in view to the institution's eBooks. When a researcher selects an article in the "Related Resources" section of the Explore panel within the document view, they'll be taken directly to the relevant article page in Gale eBooks in a new browser tab.

Gale Directory Library

The following products have received full content updates, and outdated information has been deleted where applicable (exceptions noted):

- Business Ranking Annual
- Consultants & Consulting Organizations Directory
- Encyclopedia of Associations: Regional, State, and Local Organizations
- Government Research Directory
- International Research Centers Directory
- Market Share Reporter
- National Faculty Directory
- Research Centers Directory
- Scholarships, Fellowships, and Loans
- Statistics Sources
- Ward's Business Directory
- Biography and Genealogy Master Index: ~33,000 new and changed records
- Passenger and Immigration Lists Index: ~45,000 new and changed records

Important Information

The portal component of Gale World Scholar: Latin America and the Caribbean will be retired at the end of June 2023. Most periodical and reference content currently available in World Scholar will still be accessible in other resources, like Gale Academic OneFile and Gale OneFile: Informe Academico as well as Gale eBooks. This means users will be able to expand their research on Latin America and the Caribbean to other publications within those resources. Please note that a small percentage of index-only content will no longer be available.

As part of this update, the archive component of World Scholar: Latin American and the Caribbean will be getting a face-lift. The archive will inherit several key new features as part of this transition, including an OCR (optical character recognition) panel, greater accessibility conformance, tools such as Topic Finder and Term Frequency, and a sleek presentation that brings the archive in-line with other Gale primary source content.

We're excited for this new path for Latin American and Caribbean content at Gale, and will share more details of its new life as they become available.
